

Report Progress By Development Ass'n

Enthusiasm is Good, Field and Winkleman Say

The Saline Valley Development association is making good progress with Gallatin county coming along in especially fine shape, R. E. Field, Carrier Mills supervisor, told the Saline County Board of Supervisors at the October meeting Thursday.

"This thing is going to take more than talk—it'll take a lot of action," he commented of the Saline-Gallatin county group which is organizing to promote the development of the area.

"Sometimes we find things discouraging," said Ewell Winkleman, Harrisburg board member, "but I am happy to report there is a lot of enthusiasm in Gallatin county right now. I hope that all the municipalities will have their delegates named to the executive board by Tuesday night."

Organization Meeting Oct. 29

He explained that a meeting of delegates would be held at Shawneetown that evening and that executive committee would be seated at an organization meeting Oct. 29 at the Gallatin county court house. This second meeting will be open to the public and everybody is invited to attend.

"It's everybody's business that we try to develop this area and bring more people in instead of seeing them moving out," Winkleman said. "One big reason is that the people who are left will have to take over the tax burdens of people who are forced to leave."

"When the valuations go down, the multiplier will get higher."

Aubrey Giles, Eldorado board member, declared that Field and Winkleman are putting a lot of effort into the two-county program and added:

"All the citizens must put their shoulders to the wheel and push. We'll need everybody working after the 29th."

Approve Health Dept. Budget

Field, Winkleman and Giles are the members of the Industrial committee of the board of supervisors.

The Supervisors unanimously approved the budget and appropriation ordinance and the tax levy for the Egyptian Health department. The budget estimated an overall amount of $123,952 available and an overall expenditure of $104,400 for operations in Saline, White and Gallatin counties. The appropriation ordinance called for $27,970 from Saline.

Could Outstrip Russia

Eisenhower Calls On Free World to Create Super Scientific Alliance

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower called free nations to create a super scientific alliance that would far outstrip anything the Russians can produce in technological and missile achievements.

"... We have the power," the President said last night. "The only thing to do is put it together."

Eisenhower appealed specifically for a grouping of the scientists of North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) nations. But he also had in mind the total scientific manpower and resources of the free world.

He Speaks at Dinner

"NATO should not be thought of merely as a military alliance," he said. "NATO is a way of grouping ability—of our manhood, our resources, of our industries and our factories."

Eisenhower issued the call for scientific unity at a glittering White House dinner for Queen Elizabeth II. He also stressed the ties binding the United States and Commonwealth countries in these troubled times.

Meanwhile, a high-ranking government scientist indicated the administration is in the process of stepping up its missile and satellite programs.

British astronomer Dr. A. C. B. Lovell said the end of the rocket is "imminent."

While Eisenhower did not go into details on his plans for scientific alliance, he apparently favored an international organization set up along NATO lines.

"The free world is engaged in a great struggle and the total of the free world's assets are so much greater than those of the potential enemy," he said, "that it is ridiculous to compare them."

Then Looting Began

Mike Todd Party Runs Wild After Television Cameras are Turned Off

By DOC QUIGG

United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP)—That was a real nice clambake Mike Todd threw Thursday night, and a nice time was had by all—until the television cameras winked off and the food and presents came on.

At that time—the hour was 11:05 p. m. e. d. t.—a human menagerie of several thousand more-or-less formally dressed persons descended to the arena where wild animals of the circus perform in season.

Todd had invited 18,000

"chums" to a Madison Square Garden party to celebrate the anniversary of his film "Around the World in 80 Days."

Those who couldn't jam onto the floor watched the others, and it was a scene to behold. Jeep loads of presents were on display on the floor, presents supposed to be held for a drawing of numbers later this week. Each person with a seat ticket was to get a present from the drawing.

At 11:05, however, the looting began at one end of the arena. Men in dinner jackets broke into jeep-loaded cardboard boxes and fought for the contents. Women squealed in the human squirm. Pocketbooks, toys, cameras, liquors, and various donated knickknacks were carried away.

One man jumped onto a truck and tugged an electric washer to the floor with a bang. "It's mine!" he shouted, patting it. Then he began wrestling it toward the doorway. A harried publicity man and a policeman stopped him but another man walked off with a hi-fi console balanced heavily on his right shoulder.

Women jammed taffy candy into their pocketbooks. Those who sought food were served, but the crush was such that many paper plates heaped with gooey stuff were shoved into faces and shirt-fronts.

Georgie Jessel, the master of ceremonies, delivered the keynote address before the TV show went on.

"Such an evening," he said, "will never happen again—nobody could stand it."

Rector Solves Crisis Created by Queen's Visit to Church Sunday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth's visit to the national cathedral next Sunday created a crisis for St. Alban's church on the cathedral grounds.

The rector, Dr. E. Felix Korman, solved it by cancelling the 9:30 a. m. family service and postponing the regular 11 a. m. service until after the crush of the Queen's visit is over.

His notice to parishioners led off with:

"Pussy cat, pussy cat, where have you been?"

"I've been to London to see the Queen."

"Don't go to London to see the Queen."

"Come to St. Alban's at 10:15."

Queen Thrills Children On Visit to Hospital

Medal by Eisenhower;
Briefed by Scientists

WASHINGTON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II, showing all the compassion of a mother, visited Children's Hospital today and brought a story-book moment to the lives of its little patients.

One of them, 7-year-old Leroy Gooding, had been coached for hours to show the Queen his mechanical fire truck and shake hands with her. But he was so overwhelmed when his moment arrived that all he could do was sit and stare at the Queen, his mouth agape. Leroy has been suffering from pneumonia.

A former patient, Katherine Fowler, also forgot her lines in explaining cardiac treatment equipment to her majesty.

The 31-year-old Queen, whose two children have received the Salk polio vaccine, also visited some young patients for whom the vaccine discovery came too late.

Looking at a small boy in a warm pool doing leg exercises, she said, "I hope that's nice warm water." She was assured it was.

Gifts for Royal Children

John Wayne (Butch) Terry, a polio convalescent, gave the Queen an American schoolboy's football, for Prince Charles. Ten-year-old Pamela Springmann, her black eyes sparkling although she is suffering from a rare blood disease, gave the Queen a blond haired doll dressed in blue velvet, for Princess Anne.

The Queen was a disappointment to one child—7-year-old Charlene Robinson.

"No crown," Charlene mumbled between sobs.

The Queen and Prince Philip went separate ways in their tightly scheduled series of visits and appearances.

A business meeting and the group's annual banquet also were included in the program.

150 More State Police Trainees To Begin Training

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—An additional 150 state police trainees will go into their streamlined three-week basic training at the State Fair grounds here Oct. 28.

State Police Chief William H. Morris said the new trainees will complete their course Nov. 15, with immediate assignment to highway duties.

The new class will make a total of 300 new men assigned to duty in the various state police districts since the force was enlarged by the 1957 Legislature.

The full strength of the old 600-man force was raised to 1,100, plus an extra 100 officers to be trained for highway patrol duty on the toll highways in northern Illinois.

Morris said the present timetable calls for another class of 90 to begin training Nov. 18, and a fourth class to begin Dec. 9, with 120 trainees.

Hoover Assistant To Retire from FBI

WASHINGTON (AP)—The FBI said today that Louis B. Nichols, assistant to FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover, plans to retire Nov. 1.

A spokesman said Nichols plans to take a long vacation and then hopes to enter private industry.

A native of Decatur, Ill., Nichols is married and has two sons, John Edgar, 18, who was named after the FBI chief, and Louis Stevens, 13.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Be kind to one another. Eph. 4:32. We once smiled at an aged Negro wheeling coal from the side walk to a coal cellar. We overheard him muttering White Geman alright. It did not cost us a cent to show that trifling kindness to a humble tramp.

Reaction to Sputnik

It would not seem wise at this time for any public figure in America to belittle the fact that the Soviet Union has launched a man-made satellite.

We must realize that in terms of world reaction to this event, it does not much matter whether we believed we were in a race with Russia to send a satellite aloft, or whether in time we will launch a more efficient one.

World capitals clearly are impressed that the Russians were first. They are likely to dismiss as alibis anything we say to minimize the Soviet accomplishment.

The unhappy reality is that the launching has put considerable tarnish on the bright image of America as the fountainhead of scientific and industrial achievement.

The world knows now—and is not apt to forget—that Soviet science, particularly in rocket research, has been underrated.

That knowledge is in one sense unsettling. For in the nature of things, the outside world cannot know for certain what Soviet scientists are up to. The mere fact that months or even years go by without report of accomplishment may not be significant. Hereafter there is bound to be constant guessing that the Russians are up to something big—in secret.

In another sense the knowledge is damaging to the United States. Even if "Sputnik" tumbles to earth long before its allotted time, it will hardly fall so low as American prestige has sunk around the globe. Some may feel that people in other lands are too ready to down-grade us in this vital field. When we do demonstrate superiority, it occasions no surprise and is often resented. When we do not, there seems in some places almost an eagerness to fault our performance.

But, whatever the emotional content of the world's reaction, there cannot be any doubt that the response is not favorable to us.

We cannot ignore the reality of this reaction as we accommodate in many ways to "Sputnik." For every time fearful respect for Russia advances, the cause of this and all free nations is endangered.

If other countries are not to knuckle under to Russia or seek a fragile neutrality, they must be able to see clearly the great rock of American achievement in science and industry. That is their security. To make of that rock a mirage is to turn that security into thin vapors.

The Fly Ball and the Grounder

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
U. S. Lagging Foreign Policy Needs Six-Point Program; Arab Refugees Could Be Resettled By Large-Scale Irrigation Program; Ike Proclaimed People-To-People Friendship But Never Worked At It.

WASHINGTON. — This writer has recently hammered on the defects and defeats of American foreign policy. Today let's see what can be done to recover for the United States its position as leader of the free world.

The immediate problem is the Near East, where such hitherto pro-West nations as Lebanon and Saudi Arabia are now tearing up the Eisenhower Doctrine in their fear of Khrushchev's sabre-rattling.

Of course, there is no panacea for peace or for winning back American prestige, but here are some of the things that should help:

1. Arab refugees—an over-all package plan for resettlement of Arab refugees is necessary to ease some of the bitterness between the Arab world and Israel. This could be done by several large irrigation projects such as those studied by Harry Truman shortly before he left the White House. This is an intricate, difficult, but all-important problem; more on it later.

2. Education.—We have had crash programs to produce certain weapons during war, why not a crash program for education during peace? The school bill, which has been dawdling in Congress for years with no help from the President, should be passed. College professors and school-teachers should be considered as important as military leaders. They produce the brains which develop the weapons. In most foreign countries, especially Russia, a teacher is one of the most respected members of the community. He is given special honors. In this country he has to fight to keep his salary on a par with the high cost of living.

3. Win the people.—In handling our foreign aid, we work through kings and potentates, not the people. In many countries this makes for graft. Aid never gets to the masses. The masses see the rich getting richer from American aid and they take their resentment out on the United States.

What little Russian aid has been given to foreign nations usually is administered so it gets down to the people, doesn't enrich the potentates.

We place too much reliance on outmoded feudal systems such as that of King Saud of Saudi Arabia. His concern for Cadillac cars rather than people will eventually catch up with him. Though his system can't last, we are betting all our diplomatic cards on it.

Our talk about democracy doesn't stack up when we support dictators.

4. Less military burdens.—We have got to quit insisting that our allies carry crushing military burdens. Greece spends 30 per cent of its taxes on the military. If part were spent on road building, air fields, and irrigation projects to take up slack unemployment, it would have much greater impact in battling communism.

Turkey is almost bankrupt today because it keeps a huge army of half a million foot soldiers. Yet foot soldiers are largely out of date. This may be why Khrushchev says the Turks could stand up against Russia for only one day.

Right alongside Greece and Turkey, communism is making progress in Bulgaria and Rumania because their standard of living is improving. If we help our allies to promote their standard of living, communism can make no headway. But if we impoverish our friends through huge military expenditures, communism will increase. The battle of communism will be won or lost on the field of economics and preservation of personal liberties.

5. Local irritants.—The island of Cyprus, sought by the Greeks, ruled by the British, and 20 per cent populated by Turks, is one of the worst headaches in the Near East. It has festered too long. It is spoiling relations among our three good friends—Britain, Greece and Turkey. We should have stepped in a long time ago to settle this situation.

Likewise, relations between Japan and South Korea are a source of friction. We can have no effective alliance among our Asiatic friends until we rap recalcitrant old President Syngman Rhee over the knuckles and make him admit Japan to the anti-Communist Pact.

If Japan is left out, she is bound to drift toward Red China.

6. People-To-People Friendship.—The best long-term safeguard the United States has against war is to win the friendship of people behind the iron curtain. President Eisenhower officially recognized this at the Geneva "Summit" conference and made it the official policy of the United States. Then for two years he forgot about it and did nothing to implement it.

Recently I appointed a committee which is getting busy. Meanwhile, all sorts of individual Americans have worked at winning friends abroad. They have scored important results.

However, what we need is a crash program of people-to-people friendship—something which will catch world imagination. If, for instance, we offered to exchange 25,000 students with Russia right now it would be proof that we are not afraid our students will be contaminated by the Communist system; they are too good Americans. I would bet it could be the Russian students who might get "contaminated" with capitalism.

Khrushchev has bragged about lowering the iron curtain and his willingness to permit student exchange, but we have never taken him up. It's time we did so.

None of these solutions in themselves will win the battle, but all of them taken together should get our now-flagging foreign policy back in its once proud position of leading the free world.

Matter of FACT

George Washington took the first step toward establishing an American military decoration on Aug. 7, 1782, when he permitted his soldiers to wear a heart of purple cloth for unusually meritorious action. This decoration was the forerunner of the present-day "Purple Heart" award conferred upon members of the armed forces wounded in action. The present form was established on the 200th anniversary of Washington's birthday, Feb. 22, 1932.

Mrs. Marie McCormick Gives Recipe for Cake Baked in Contest

Mrs. Marie McCormick has been asked by many of her friends for the recipe of the cake entered in the Modern Living show in St. Louis which she was asked to bake at the Friday night contest.

The recipe, which she has consented to share, is as follows: Pineapple Sauce Cake: 2 cups sugar (granulated); 1 cup shortening; 2 eggs; 4 cups flour; 1 cup drained crushed pineapple; 1 cup unsweetened apple sauce; 2 teaspoons cinnamon; 1 teaspoon allspice; 1-2 teaspoon nutmeg; 1 teaspoon salt; 2 teaspoons baking soda; 4 table spoons water; 1 cup chopped pecans; 1 cup raisins and 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Cream shortening with sugar; add eggs, beaten until thick and lemon colored; stir in crushed pineapple and apple sauce. Sift spices, together with salt and flour, three times. Add to the first mixture in three portions, beating well after each addition. Before the last portion is added, stir in the baking soda which has been dissolved in hot water. Add nuts and raisins last and mix well.

Pour into a greased and floured, nine inch tube pan and bake at 325 degrees for one hour, or until the cake shrinks from the sides of the pan and a skewer inserted in the center, comes out clean.

RUPTURE

Expert Coming Here Again.

R. K. Shallenberger

Nationally known expert will personally demonstrate his method without charge at the Colonial Hotel, Harrisburg, Tuesday Evening, Oct. 22, from 5 p. m. to 8 p. m.

Mr. Shallenberger says the Shallenberger method contracts the openings in remarkably short time on the average case, regardless of the size or location of the rupture and no matter how much you lift or strain, and puts you back to work the same day as efficient as before you were ruptured.

The Shallenberger Rupture Shield has no leg strap; water proof, sanitary, practically indestructible and can be worn while bathing. Each shield is skillfully molded and fitted to the parts under heat, which gives a perfect fit and satisfaction.

Large and difficult ruptures following operations especially solicited.

Do not overlook this opportunity if you want gratifying results. Mailing address: Angola, Indiana. —(Adv.)

PART OF THEIR WAY OF LIFE! Since the first American "gas buggy" was invented, the automobile has become a part of America's way of life. Today, there is 1 motor vehicle for every 3 people in the U.S.A.; a happy state of affairs to which bank credit has contributed measurably. At the end of 1955, for example, total outstanding auto-purchase credit almost equaled the value of factory sales of all U.S. motor vehicles that year — and some $5 billion of that credit had been extended by America's banks.

STONEFORT SCHOOL NEWS

By CAROL Bainbridge

Hope I'm on time this week. I forgot to send my news in last week. Some reporter I've turned out to be, but I hope you will forgive me, and I'll try not to forget again.

We are all very sorry to see Mrs. Georgia Cox leave. However, it has been a great pleasure knowing her and having had her as teacher this past month.

We wish to welcome Mrs. Nulty, our principal and seventh and eighth grade teacher, back again and are glad that she is able to be back at school.

The autumn theme has been carried out in the decorations in the seventh and eighth grade rooms. Bright colored leaves and apples adorn the windows and since this is the month of October, the theme wouldn't be complete without pumpkins and black cats.

Miss Casey's youngsters have been making books of themselves and they have some very nice ones. Danny Felty, a second grader, has a birthday this month.

Jamima Smith celebrated her birthday Oct. 12. Jamima and some of her friends went roller-skating at Harrisburg.

Oct. 29 is the big day for S. G. S. It is the annual homecoming game and queen coronation. The games will be with St. Mary's school from Herrin. We are looking forward to a big crowd and a good time.

There are still plenty of light bulbs left and if you haven't bought yours, plan to do so right away.

Report cards were given out last Friday and I will try to have the honor roll for you in the next issue.

That's about it for this time. See you next week.

THE CHANNEL SWIM CBS to Book Bing Crosby for Another Special

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK — The channel swim . . .

You can expect to see Bing Crosby back on TV in another live spectacular this season. Crosby's happy caper on last Sunday's "Edsel Show" sparked an offer from CBS-TV for another special one-shot in December. One-half sponsorship already is firmed up.

ABC-TV is hot for an Orson Welles half-hour drama show—the network hopes to launch it in January for Sunday showing . . . CBS-TV landed Judith Anderson for the lead in its January special, "The Bridge of San Luis Rey."

Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz are filming exteriors for their third CBS-TV special outside Las Vegas—Fred MacMurray and June Haver will star in "The Vehicle." George Jessel hopes to crack back into TV with a filmed interview show for National Telefilm Associates.

Mrs. Roosevelt Booked
Eleanor Roosevelt, originally scheduled for the ABC-TV Mike Wallace interview show this Saturday, was yanked off when NBC-TV's "Meet the Press" complained it had booked her in for Sunday. Mrs. Roosevelt now is scheduled to tangle with Wallace on Nov. 23.

Kate Smith, whose daily 25-minute Mutual radio show is expected to debut around Jan. 6, will concentrate on chatter and interviews rather than music. Mutual, incidentally, is torn between two titles for the new show—if it comes on in the morning, they may call it "Coffee with Kate," but if it winds up an afternoon show, they probably will go with "Tea with Kate."

NBC-TV's "Howdy Doody" marks its 10th anniversary Dec. 28. . . "Strike it Rich" is about to be interred by CBS-TV after an eight-year run . . .

Elizabeth Fraser, the blonde who plays Sgt. Bilko's girl friend in the CBS-TV Phil Silvers Show, has a role in the forthcoming clicker, "Tunnel of Love" . . . Red Skelton is busy mapping out a nation-wide tour of theatres in which he'll combine pantomime with the mood music of David Rose.

Allen to Spoof
Steve Allen, whose NBC-TV show was clobbered by the CBS-TV "Edsel Show" last Sunday, will do a comedy spoof this Sunday of a car called "The Pretzel."

Guy Lombardo cancelled $10,000 in bookings to play Manhattan's Commonwealth Ball for Queen Elizabeth this Monday. He even bought his band new tuxedos.

Seek Nurses in Flu Epidemic At Dixon School

DIXON, Ill. — Officials today appealed for nurses to help stem a flu epidemic that already has killed seven persons at the Dixon State School For The Retarded.

A total of 1,278 patients were suffering from the flu at the crowded school, and Superintendent Robert Wallace warned "we're not out of this yet."

He said 4 of the inmates were critically ill and 24 others were in serious condition. Emergency precautions were taken to try and prevent the disease from affecting others among the 4,883 inmates.

Five thousand cubic centimetres of vaccine were rushed to the school today and doctors planned to inoculate all inmates who have not yet been stricken during the next two days.

The Dixon flu outbreak was one of four to hit schools for retarded children across the nation. One epidemic claimed the lives of six inmates of a Pennsylvania school, and less serious outbreaks occurred at state schools near Spokane, Wash., and Union Grove, Wis.

Install Dr. McKay New President of Millikin University

DECATUR, Ill. — Dr. Paul L. McKay was formally installed as the eighth president of Millikin University in ceremonies Thursday.

He succeeds Dr. J. Walter Malone, who retired. The new president came to Millikin from the First Presbyterian Church of Akron, Ohio.

Marie Wilson Returns Baby

HOLLYWOOD — A young unwed mother who agreed to let actress Marie Wilson and her husband, Bob Fallon, adopt her baby and then changed her mind had the black-eyed little girl back with her today.

The blonde comedienne and Fallon turned 3½-month-old Christine over to her natural mother, Linda Leabow, a pretty 21-year-old UCLA coed, Thursday, at a doctor's office near the young woman's campus.

"It is with great reluctance and with a heavy heart that we have decided to return Chris to her natural mother. We both believe that any further airing of the incident would make a legal football of the baby and cause further grief to everyone concerned," the couple said.

"As parents, we felt that Chris belonged in our home but we sincerely hope that the baby's natural mother will give her all the affection that we had planned for her."

counties. The appropriation ordinance called $27,970 from Saline county taxes and a tax levy of .05 per cent to raise the $27,970.

Dr. James H. Wells, the department's health officer, was present with the audit recently completed by Rice and Bedel for inspection by board members who desired to see it.

Other action:
The board accepted ambulance figures for the county that have been accepted by the Illinois Public Aid Commission for ambulance cases in Saline. A uniform set of rates has been established by the Saline County Funeral Directors association.

Reports Approved
A resolution to accept $200 from Howard Moore for the county's rights in about 263 acres of land south of town was approved.

Approved were the reports of County Treasurer Maynard Cannon and of Annabelle Melton, child welfare worker. After the treasurer's report was accepted Cannon said that tax collections have been very good this year and that his office is continuing to collect taxes this late in the year.

Resolutions accepting low bids for surface materials and for culvert pipe for Long Branch, Mountain, Tate, Eldorado and Rector townships were accepted. The bid for pipe for Cottage was accepted but the materials bid of three dollars per ton for rock was rejected as too high and there will be a readvertising for bids.

Contract Approved
A new contract for M. D. Holland to occupy the county farm was approved. Originally it was voted that Paul Massey would have the contract on the best bid of $60 per month. However, before the contract was signed Massey said he wanted out of the deal and Holland took up the contract at $61 per month, to be paid to the county.

Chairman Kenneth Jackson of Long Branch said there was a vacancy on the Saline County Welfare Services committee and named Snowden Roper of Carrier Mills to the post.

The passage of the county's annual appropriation ordinance and levy was postponed until the November meeting pending the arrival of a representative of the M. B. Coker auditing firm to help with the ordinance.

Rackets Probers Seize Records

ST. LOUIS — A federal subpena seizing all records of Teamsters' Local 688, home base of Harold J. Gibbons, was issued Thursday a few hours after the Senate Labor Rackets Committee opened an office in St. Louis.

Gibbons, who headed the campaign to elect James R. Hoffa International Teamster president, called the subpena "just another fishing expedition." He said the action was "an attempt to smear our local union."

"We have nothing to hide," Gibbons said. "Monthly financial reports have been made to our members through the union's newspaper. All general expenditures were processed through rank and file committee."

The St. Louis Teamster boss said "we are going to produce what they asked for but it will take several days since it will involve 15 to 20 file cases."

The subpena followed announcement that Irwin Langenbacher, an assistant counsel for the committee, would head the St. Louis office which will study records of both the Central and Southern State Conferences of Teamsters.

Hoffa is president of the Central Conference, with Gibbons secretary-treasurer. The St. Louis labor leader, elected a vice president, is scheduled to be Hoffa's chief of state when he assumes the presidency.

See No Summit Conference

LONDON — The Foreign Office said today there were no indications of a possible summit conference with Soviet leaders arising from Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's meeting in Washington next week with President Eisenhower.

British press reports had said that Macmillan and Eisenhower would discuss the desirability of a summit meeting with the Russian leaders.

No. 10 Downing Street, Macmillan's official residence, had no comment on the report. But official sources strongly discouraged the idea, pointing out the gloomy results of the last summit meeting in Geneva.

The sources also called attention to the fact that there has been no dramatic change in Soviet foreign policy to encourage a summit meeting at this time.

U. of Chicago Boosts Tuition

CHICAGO — The University of Chicago has announced that tuition fees will go up 20 per cent beginning with the next summer quarter.

School officials said tuition will come to $840 for the academic year in the college, graduate divisions, and all professional schools except medicine. The Medicine School fee is $1,000.

The "continuing pressure of the rising price level" caused this first tuition hike since 1953, officials said.

Irate Tavern Owner's Complaints Lead to Raids

CARBONDALE, Ill. — An irate tavern owner said today he is going to see to it that slot machines are kept out of Jackson County until his wife gets a liquor license.

Thomas Butcher Jr., of Carbondale, who operates a tavern in Murphysboro, filed complaints that led to raids by the sheriff's office Wednesday night on five Carbondale clubs.

Six slot machines were seized at the Veterans of Foreign Wars club, raided first. No machines were found at the other clubs.

State's Atty. William Ridgeway said charges of possession of gambling equipment would be filed against the VFW club.

Butcher said his wife's application for a license to operate a package liquor store in Carbondale was rejected by the City Council and the Illinois Liquor Control Commission.

"If I can't operate legally, the clubs are not going to operate illegally," Butcher said.

ly and womanly prerogative of being late—for the first time on her American tour—started this rainy day 10 minutes late at the National Art Gallery.

The young Queen, wearing a fur-trimmed brown velvet coat, toured 24 galleries of the art gallery. She received a ceremonial welcome from Chief Justice Earl Warren, 15 gallery trustees and donors, and the wives of the chief justices, the secretary of state and the secretary of the treasury.

A Medal for Philip
Also running a few minutes late, President Eisenhower presented Prince Philip the National Geographic Society's gold medal for service to geography at a White House ceremony.

Rain forced the ceremony indoors from the Rose Garden where it had been scheduled. It was held in the Cabinet Room instead.

The medal was inscribed, "To H.R.H. the Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, whose questing spirit has taken him to the far corners of the globe and brought to millions a better understanding of our planet and its people."

The prince responded: "I really don't deserve it because I know what others have done to get it, and my contributions are very small."

Dr. Melville Bell Grosvenor, president of the society, explained that Philip was given the award primarily for his four-month, 40,000 mile trip to remote areas of the world last year.

Prince Gets Briefing
From the White House, Philip rushed to the National Academy of Sciences for a briefing on the U. S. scientific experiments in the current International Geophysical year, including the American-made "sputnik."

He met with Dr. Joseph Kaplan, head of the U. S. IGY committee, and other prominent scientists behind closed doors in the academy's paneled lecture hall.

The royal couple was scheduled to join the Vice President and Mrs. Nixon for a reception and lunch on Capitol Hill.

Later another of the inevitable receptions was scheduled—the sixth—handshaking siege in seven days. Dinner with Secretary of State and Mrs. Dulles is to be a full-dress affair.

Paratroopers Search, Break Up Crowd of Boys at Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Paratroopers searched and broke up a crowd of 12 or 14 white boys on the Central High School steps today as seven Negro students arrived for classes.

They slapped their jackets, as if looking for weapons and made one boy turn his pockets out. After checking the identification cards of the boys, they ordered them to move on.

The paratroopers chased off the white boys as seven of the nine Negroes who integrated Central High on Sept. 25 were pulling up at the curb in an Army station wagon escorted by one jeepload of soldiers.

FCC Opens Way For Stations to Test Pay-Television

WASHINGTON — The government opened the way today for television stations to apply for the first tests of pay-as-you-see TV in the U. S.

The Federal Communications Commission voted 5-1 to "afford a suitable opportunity for subscription television to demonstrate its capacity to render a useful service."

However, the commission said applications would not be acted upon until next March.

By that time, Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) is expected to have begun an investigation of toll television. Celler has said he expects any such system to be out-lawed.

Following its decision, the FCC listed basic rules to be applied in the proposed test. Trials would be limited to a three-year period. Each pay-TV system would be tried out in not more than three cities, and each would have to have four top-quality television outlets.

Haney to Discuss New Contract with Braves; Pay Increase Expected

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — Fred Haney, baseball's best lineup juggler in 1957 and prime candidate for manager of the year, talks over his 1958 contract with the Milwaukee Braves' front office Saturday.

He'll undoubtedly get a raise for winning the World Series. The best guess at his earnings this year is about $35,000.

A one-year contract will be offered him, in line with Braves policy under President Joseph Caines.

Haney was on the hot seat all season in piloting the Braves to the National League pennant. It was generally conceded that the 58-year-old former skipper of the luckless St. Louis Browns and Pittsburgh Pirates, would have been out of a job had not the Braves come home first.

Attitude Irked Press

Refusing to look beyond his immediate opponent, Haney's "one-game-at-a-time" attitude irritated newsmen who looked for more spectacular comments. But he stuck to his guns.

After the season, he explained that he and General Manager John

"A WISE PHYSICIAN IS MORE THAN ARMIES TO THE PUBLIC WEAL"

—Alexander Pope

"Weal" is an old English word that means welfare, and everyone agrees that physicians are worth more than armies.

Modern physicians have new skilled diagnostic techniques that enable them to more certainly know the cause of a sickness. The pharmaceutical profession supplies them with many new perfected drugs that can be depended upon to accomplish a desired result. Physicians no longer rely on just a few medicines carried in their bag or office. They write a prescription for the one drug that will help most, knowing that prescription pharmacies like ours carry thousands to choose from.

THE STORY: A man's body was fished out of a pond near where Sarah Casement was staying on Cape Cod. There is also a firebug at work in the neighborhood. So far, neither of these things seem to have a very close relationship with the death of Grant Melville, the painter. Sarah believes Melville was murdered.

XIV

The car that drove off down the road after Steven Task arrived home was Bert Symons's.

The cargo he was conveying through the night, the unknown man who had been fished up out of the pond late that afternoon, put no weight on his spirit. When a man was dead he was dead and that was all there was to it, and someone had to take care of people when they passed on. It was his bread and butter and he had no quarrel with it. There was no ambulance in the town and he was paid a yearly sum for the use of his facilities when required. The funeral probably wouldn't be too profitable a job, unless they found out who the guy was and he turned out to have money. But there'd be something in it anyhow.

Symons bowed along at a fast clip. He reached home at around

Matter of FACT

© Britannica Junior Encyclopedia

Most people think of acids as part of a chemical laboratory; dangerous liquids which burn the skin and eat holes in clothing. This is true of very few acids, however. There are many acids we use in our daily lives in our homes which are relatively harmless in small quantities, such as acetic acid or vinegar; lactic acid found in cheeses; tartaric acid; ascorbic acid, the chemical name for Vitamin C; or acetylsalicylic acid or aspirin.

1:30 and drove the wagon into the garage. There was a bell there He pressed it for his son Joe, who was his assistant, and got out leisurely. Yawning and stretching, he went around the wagon, opened the doors, started to pull the long basket toward him, stopped, and threw up the lid.

At what he saw his jaw dropped and his eyes all but fell out of his head. He kept on staring down. He hadn't looked closely at the stiff confided to his care when he put him into the basket—he'd see enough of him later on. Things like this didn't happen. . . . Nobody would do such a thing.

"What's the matter, Pop?" Joe Symons, a tall thin youth in a white shirt and Army pants, looked at his father in amazement, and was greeted by a flood of profanity.

Before his father could get going on him the phone in the garage started shrilling. Symons took the call. It was from the Cornwall firehouse. Danzig, the fire chief, was on the other end of the line. He wanted Symons to come and collect another body, the body of the man who had burned to death in the summer cottage on the hill behind the Cornwall church.

"O.K.," Symons mumbled, and rang off and took the receiver away and dialed the police station with a shaking finger.

If Bert Symons was thrown into complete and utter confusion by the discovery he made when he reached home that night, the police, the medical examiner and finally the general public were equally so.

The story hit the countryside like a bomb early the next day. The body of the man found drowned in the pond in Cornwall had been stolen from Bert Symons' basket wagon while Symons was playing poker with Peter Sproul.

The autopsy finding showed that there was no smoke in the lungs of the charred corpse discovered in the smoking ruins of the summer cottage on the hill behind the church. The man there hadn't burned to death. He was already dead when the fire broke out. There was no second corpse. The body fished up out of the water and stolen from Bert Symons and the body removed from the ruins of the burned cottage were one and the same. The macabre thief had transported the man found drowned in the pond to the empty cottage up on the hill behind the church, and the cottage had then been put to the torch.

When Steven had come home and told them about the man burned to death in the summer cottage Sarah had said at once, "My man—my tramp. The man who was burned to death is the man who was in the stone house and who was scared out of it when I arrived last Saturday—when Carlotta and I went over and went in. I'm sure of it."

Carlotta and Tom pooh-poohed her. Steven didn't. He got up and went to a drawer in one of the kitchen cabinets.

Carlotta hooted at Steven when he found the keys in the drawer, but he said that the fact that the keys were there now didn't mean a thing. Their house was always open, whether they were there or not, and people wandered in and out at will.

Sarah thought of the lamp Bob Brown had returned yesterday evening, the spot lamp with the long cord. . . . She spoke of it. How had Bob Brown gotten into the house to borrow the lamp in the first place?

Carlotta frowned, then her face cleared. She said Florrie had wanted it early in September for her birthday party, to light up their lawn. She admitted that Florrie hadn't asked her for the keys and that she must have taken them, but she had brought them back openly.

Carlotta was puzzled, and then dismayed. "Steven—you mean that someone we know, one of our friends, opened the house for a stranger man, so he could stay there?"

Steven shrugged. "It certainly looks like it. Figure it out for yourself," he said. "A man we don't know, a stranger to us, comes to stay in Grace's house. He's supposedly a friend of Grace's. Who's going to challenge that? She's loaned the house to half a dozen different people, people we didn't know from Adam before they came here. I can't think of any other way the fellow could have gotten in, the house is pretty tightly locked up."

IPAC Caseload For August Totals 283,954 Persons

SPRINGFIELD —The Public Aid Commission said today there was little change from July to August in the number of persons receiving public assistance.

The August caseload totaled 283,954 persons, 182 less than the July figure. Expenditures for August totaled $13,881,940, an increase of $243,766 over the July figure. The increased costs for August

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D. D. (Written for NEA Service)

The greatness of God and the achievements of man stand out in the museums of America. We stand in awe of man's artistry and of his inventive genius. Yet, even a casual observation indicates that few developments have been independent of the work of other human beings. Like the sculptor, who is dependent on others for his tools or for the idea of these tools. Man builds on the past and on the genius of others.

The animals, the birds, the fish and the infinitesimal creations too small to be seen with the naked eye tell a far different story. These creatures were all made by a single God. They did not have to be invented and added to by human effort.

Merely to look at the thousands of creatures so varied in size, shape and habit, is to recognize that the one God is greater than the combination of all men. He it is that we must worship.

were caused by higher prices for medical care and for some items on the cost of living index, the commission said.

The caseloads and expenditures for each of the five aid programs in August were: General assistance, 72,957 persons and $2,845,897; old age assistance, 85,966 persons and $5,803,184; blind assistance, 3,407 persons and $242,674; disability assistance, 13,241 persons and $1,075,581; and aid to dependent children, 109,341 persons and $3,914,604.

Charter War I Barracks At Murphysboro

Murphysboro Barracks Veterans of World War I was chartered Sunday, Oct. 13, in impressive ceremonies that marked the official existence of 1,026th Barracks of Veterans of World War I in the State of Illinois.

The meeting was opened with prayer by the chaplain and Salute to the Colors. The welcome was extended by Senior Vice Commander Sherman Carr of Murphysboro.

Lovell Hess, of Eldorado, commander of the First Illinois District, instituted the Barracks and installed the new officers for the ensuing year, in an impressive ritualistic ceremony.

The extent of coal industry automation is reflected by the fact that some 252 equipment manufacturers exhibited at the 1957 Cleveland Coal Show their contributions to coal mining mechanization.
